YRs CHOOSE CHANDRA: YOUNG REPUBLICANS ENDORSE ASHOK CHANDRA FOR CITY COUNCIL

NEW YORK CITY – The New York Young Republican Club is proud to announce its official endorsement of Ashok Chandra to represent District 4 in the New York City Council.

Chandra, a 30-year-old Indian-American attorney who lives in midtown with his wife and baby daughter, is a lifelong Republican and an active member of the Club, currently serving as a vice president. Last night, the Club's executive board voted unanimously to endorse Mr. Chandra in his campaign effort. Of utmost importance to the Club's decision is that Chandra embodies urban Republican principles in word and action. Mr. Chandra's agenda calls for the promotion of small business, expansion of charter schools, reform of city government, and responsible city spending.

The Club is actively supporting Mr. Chandra in his race. Members have been collecting signatures throughout the 4th District, energized by the prospect of a Republican primary and excited to support a young and articulate candidate. Says one club member, "We support Ashok not only because he exemplifies conservative ideals and cares for his community. A primary race, especially with such a passionate candidate at the helm, will invigorate the grassroots, and city Republicans will be able to choose for themselves the best Republican to run on their line."

More information about Ashok Chandra can be found on the web at www.ChandraforNewYork.com or via telephone at (646) 841-2152.

About the Club: *The New York Young Republican Club is the oldest young Republican club in the country. It combines the best of civic engagement and social networking to bring together New York's most exceptional young conservatives. In addition to its monthly socials, the Club boasts a robust speaker series, an assertive policy arm, and enthusiastic young leadership.
